PM takes one-sided look at riding businesses

by Russ Duhaime

Prime Minister Kim Campbell got a technicolour view of Victoria-Haliburton's industrial prowess when she paid a brief visit to the riding last week.

The riding's soaring unemployment was not a consideration when Campbell's campaign rolled into Lindsay for an hour-long stop at the thriving Crayola factory.

Binney and Smith is a "success story" Campbell said when asked why she chose this plant as a stop on her campaign tour.

"It's important to see the reality of what you're dealing with," she told a select group of employees during a gathering in the plant's cafeteria.

Binney and Smith, an American owned company, is a "good example of how thinking differently about how you do your jobs can make a difference," said Campbell. "I'm here because you are a success story."

Meanwhile, Lindsay is reeling with the effects of a recent plant closure that put 100 people out of work. John Deyell Ltd. is the town's latest casualty of the recession, closing its doors two months ago. Several factories have moved out of the area in recent times inflating the area's unemployment to about 2,000 while Haliburton's unemployment rate hovers just below 30 per cent.

Campbell "seems to be overlooking unemployment instead of doing something about it," said Paul Cayley, a former member of the Abex Industries Placement Committee. Abex employed as many as 170 people before its gradual demise.

Bill Keenan shares Cayley's views. He was a member of the Uniroyal Placement Committee after that plant closed. He estimates that at least half the former Uniroyal employees are still out of work.

The Prime Minister's visit was arranged by Conservative candidate Lorne Chester. About 100 people, including a group of elementary school students, lined the walkway for Campbell's entrance and exit. Almost as many media representatives, toting cameras and microphones jostled for position inside and outside the plant.

With Chester at her side, Campbell examined the product displays before heading to the cafeteria for a chat with employees. The Prime Minister embraced the company's policy of "high velocity supply", saying this is the style of management needed across Canada. "What you're talking about here is what our country has to do," she said.

Binney and Smith recently changed its production policy to reduce the need for vast warehouse space. Instead of stockpiling its goods, the plant now gears its production to meet customers' needs.

At the close of the meeting, Campbell was presented with a giant blue crayon, which she said she'll use to colour the electoral map Tory blue.

Liberal Candidate John O'Reilly intends to counter the Prime Minister's appearance by staging an event at the empty Abex factory this Wednesday. Sheila Copps, Deputy Leader of the Liberal Party, will be the main attraction at this function.

Blinded:

Canada's Prime Minister Kim Campbell appears momentarily blinded by all of the attention focussed on her while local PC candidate Lorne Chester looks bemused as he walks behind his leader. Campbell was in Lindsay last Wednesday to kick off the Tory election campaign.

It's back: JK here to stay

by Andy Holloway

While everyone was concerned over the social contract, the NDP has slipped junior kindergarten through the provincial legislature without much fanfare.

Bill 4 was passed by the province earlier this summer and school boards that do not already have junior kindergarten will have to begin implementing the program as early as next September.

Haliburton's school board is on record as not supporting the program, but JK will be forced on it unless it wishes to jeopardize its already diminishing grants. The board has a JK plan ready, although it has never been officially brought to the board and does not have approval. It may not be suitable anyway, as the province has very sketchy plans drawn up.

School boards may appeal to delay JK until 1997 at the latest, said board superintendent of education Dale Robinson.

The Ministry of Education is still writing the regulations on how a board may delay JK, but some of the concerns raised at a meeting of education officials two weeks ago included transportation, accommodation, staffing, revenues and the social contract and the need for such a program.

"In spite of our size there is a lot of common ground between the boards when you get right down to it," said Robinson.

Robinson said a number of boards are still strongly opposed to JK and one, Peel Region, has refused to implement it. Some larger boards could buck the province because they do not receive grants anyway, but Haliburton could not afford that, said Robinson.

Wendy Ladurantaye (Minden) also attended the meeting and said a number of boards want the province to fully fund JK and would therefore have to sell the idea to the public. An earlier study showed it would cost Haliburton about $300,000 extra to implement a junior kindergarten program in this county.

If the board is forced to add JK without any government assistance it will mean either increased taxes or reduced programs in other areas like music and home economics for grade 7 which some consider frills, said Ladurantaye.

A similar situation occurred with destreaming last year where the province pushed for the idea and then retreated at the last minute

Computer program turned on

Haliburton's school board may have spent a year tinkering with its programs, but parents and students can expect more changes in the future.

Among the most noticeable changes expected in the future are a revamping of the physical education programs from kindergarten to grade 10 and the continuation of the computer initiative.

Superintendent of Education Dale Robinson said the county's phys-ed programs date back to the 1970s and must be updated. As well, the board is under pressure by health groups to introduce sex education earlier.

The computer initiative dates back to last year when the board first introduced a $900,000 computer upgrading plan. The plan was criticized by the Taxpayer's Coalition and has been sitting on the back burner while the effects of the social contract are worked out. However, Robinson said the plans are back on line and purchasing will soon begin.

Other education initiatives this year include the implementation of transition years programs and the continuation of the math initiative started last year.

Hindon residents get Stanhope dump break

by Andy Holloway

In a show of cross-municipal cooperation Stanhope almost simultaneously allowed Hindon residents access to its dump sites and increased their fire protection area.

The Pine Springs dump is located in Hindon township, but has been operated by Stanhope since approval for the site was given in 1974. When Stanhope went to a card system to prevent illegal access to its dumps, Hindon residents were left out because they did not reside in Stanhope. They could buy a $25 card if they chose, but most didn't.

Last month when the matter came before council it was decided not to allow Hindon residents free access because it may tempt other neighboring areas to press for access as well.

However, an agreement between Minden and Stanhope in 1974 allows those properties which were using the Pine Springs site as a dump before 1974 to continue to do so. Last Wednesday council was made aware of this contract and reversed their previous decision.

At the same time, Stanhope increased its fire protection area agreement with Minden by including two new areas of Hindon township. Lots 26 to 29, Concession A and Lots 1 and 2, Concession 11 will now be covered by the Stanhope fire department. Stanhope's fire chief was concerned that the department was responding to calls in the area without proper authorization.

There will be no additional cost to Minden for this year, but will be reviewed at budget time.

The new areas will join Lots 30-34, Concession A as Hindon areas served by Stanhope. All three plots of land will be given free access to Stanhope's dump sites as well.

The two deals affect about 13 property owners in the area. Reeve Fred Gardner said the solution to the problem was a good one and fair to all concerned.

Laxton is new centre of the entire country

Minden no longer the population centre of Canada according to Statistics Canada

by Jerry Grozelle

Statistics Canada has declared the United Townships of Laxton, Digby and Longford (LDL) the 1986 to 1991 population centre of Canada.

According to StatsCan, "the population centre represents the point of minimum aggregate travel (MAT), the point that would be reached by all Canadians with the least total distance travelled. This calculation does not take into account existing roads or railways but uses the shortest distance along the earth's surface between two locations."

LDL took the distinction away from Anson, Hindon and Minden Townships, the previous centre.

StatsCan cites a westerly population shift of 17 kilometres every five years for the population centre change.

While Canada's population was migrating 17 km west between 1986 and 1991, LDL has experienced a population increase of 24.4 per cent, to 1,086 people.

The population increase has been attributed to an increasing number of cottagers and others who have decided to retire in the municipality.

About 30 per cent of the municipality's people are over 60 years of age, almost twice the national average.

At a recent council meeting when the StatsCan declaration was being discussed, LDL councillor Vernon LeCraw suggested, "Now that we are the population centre of Canada, maybe we should request that the County offices be moved here."

At this time, LDL officials have no plans to promote the municipality as the population centre of Canada.

The recent Statistics Canada report does raise a few questions though. Questions like: How many person/hours are required to compile these statistics? How much did it cost? What earthly use are these figures? And, don't those people at StatsCan have anything better to do?

Emergency Stanhope landing

Montreal pilot lands test plane Phoenix with one wheel

by Russ Duhaime

It was touch and go at the Stanhope airport Friday as a pilot made a "superb" emergency landing on one wheel.

Ron Smith from Montreal was approaching the runway after a test flight when he realized the landing gear of his Phoenix aircraft was stuck.

Stanhope Township firefighters were called in to be ready for a crash landing. Instead of rescue work, though, the firefighters were treated to a ringside view of the awkward landing.

Andy Murdison, was filling in for the airport manager that day. "He did a superb job of bringing it down," Murdison said.

The small plane came down on the runway and veered off into the runway ditch. Murdison said there was very little damage to the craft. The pilot was unhurt.

Following the incident, the pilot and plane designer expressed their thanks to the airport staff and fire department. They said they were impressed with the speed and professionalism of everyone involved in this incident.

The Phoenix is a new aircraft design being developed by Aurig Design of Haliburton. It's a two-place, all-composite configuration craft designed by Kirk Creelman.

It has been flight tested 20 times over the past few months out of the Stanhope Airport with good results.

The Phoenix will be put into manufacture out of a new building in Haliburton's industrial park.

Lions get the jump on settling Santa's parade details

The following items were briefly addressed at the September 9 meeting of Anson, Hindon and Minden Townships Council.

New Chief

The fire department has a new chief and deputy. Bill Hogg and Dan McKelvey were present at Thursday's meeting to introduce themselves to the councillors. Hogg, who has been with the department since 1977, is replacing Don Booth as the new chief. McKelvey has been a firefighter since 1987 and will now serve as the department's deputy chief. Booth has retired from the volunteer department but has said he is willing to continue helping with training.

Briefly

Minden Council Notes

Santa's coming

Summer's barely over and already the Lions are tying up the loose ends for this November's Santa Claus parade. Lion Maurice Boyd attended the council meeting to make sure the fire hall will again be available for Santa to meet with the children. This year's parade has been moved ahead to November 27 in order to avoid conflict with another parade in the county. The parade has been running in Minden for about four years with growing enthusiasm from the community. Although it is organized by the Lions, Boyd says it is not just a Lions parade. Many of the community's clubs and associations assist in putting on this annual event, he said, and their continued participation is very important to the parade's success. Minden's new fire chief said the firehall will be available again this year and councillors expressed enthusiasm and support for the parade.

allowing boards extra time to implement the plan. John Munro (Sherborne) asked whether school boards will again be allowed additional time and why Haliburton would receive special consideration since so many boards already have JK. A majority of the province's boards already have a junior kindergarten program. Ladurantaye said it was her impression that a grace period would be set up and the province would show more leniency than it did with destreaming. Robinson agreed there may be fewer strings attached to JK than there were to destreaming.

Federal Election '93

Lorne Chester, PC

This former Lindsay Mayor and Victoria County Warden is married with three daughters. He served on town council for 15 years. He has also served on a string of committees and boards. Chester is a partner in a Lindsay legal firm. He graduated from university with a degree in history and political science before going into law. Chester has been involved with the PC association for many years and has served as treasurer, secretary and vice-president.

Issues/ comments:

The candidate has not yet responded to an invitation for an interview.

Outlook:

Chester's campaign was the first out of the blocks and has the highest profile. So far, though, it's all icing and no cake and we have to wonder if the momentum will last. He's an experienced politician with fine credentials and is a competent speaker - qualities that, so far, have been kept under wraps by a restrictive campaign team. He's not Bill Scott and likely won't get away with a Scott-style campaign.

A candid talk about the funeral profession with Barry A. Cray.

Barry A. Cray

"As an apprentice funeral director with Gordon A. Monk Funeral Home, my job is to learn as much about funeral service as I can in one year. But if I could sum up everything I've learned to date, it would have to be our Golden Rule philosophy of service.

"I suppose because I didn't grow up in the funeral service profession, I can relate well with this philosophy. Many people who aren't familiar with funeral service or aren't sure what to expect at least want to be treated fairly—the same way they would treat others.

"At Gordon A. Monk Funeral Home, that's what our Golden Rule philosophy is all about. Friendly, caring, compassionate service from people who do more than simply try to meet your needs, but try to sincerely understand them.

"And I'm learning more about this philosophy everyday. As a member of the International Order of the Golden Rule, we have a chance to associate with funeral homes from around the world who share in the same high standards of service. Service measured not by gold but by the Golden Rule."

MEMBER ORDER OF THE
GOLDEN RULE

Federal Election '93

Barry Devolin, Reform

A Haliburton resident, Devolin shifted his alliance from Tory to Reform in 1990. He is the co-founder of the Victoria-Haliburton Reform Association and was the first president. The real estate agent has taken a leave of absence from work in order to devote his time to this election. Count on a strong campaign; Devolin's experience in running elections is backed up by a Masters Degree in Political Science. His community involvement includes organization of the annual Rotary Mile. He is also a member of the Haliburton Rotary Club.

Issues:

Devolin describes himself as a small 'c' conservative whose interest in politics took a nose dive after the 1987 provincial election. He said he was disenchanted with the inner workings of the mainstream parties which shun public participation. He says they are controlled by the inner cabinet and the Prime Minister. After a call to Preston Manning, Devolin decided Reform is a means of returning the power to the people. "We want a system dominated by individuals, not groups." He says that's what the Reform Party offers. Devolin says his votes in Parliament will be primarily based on the will of his constituents.

The candidate says:

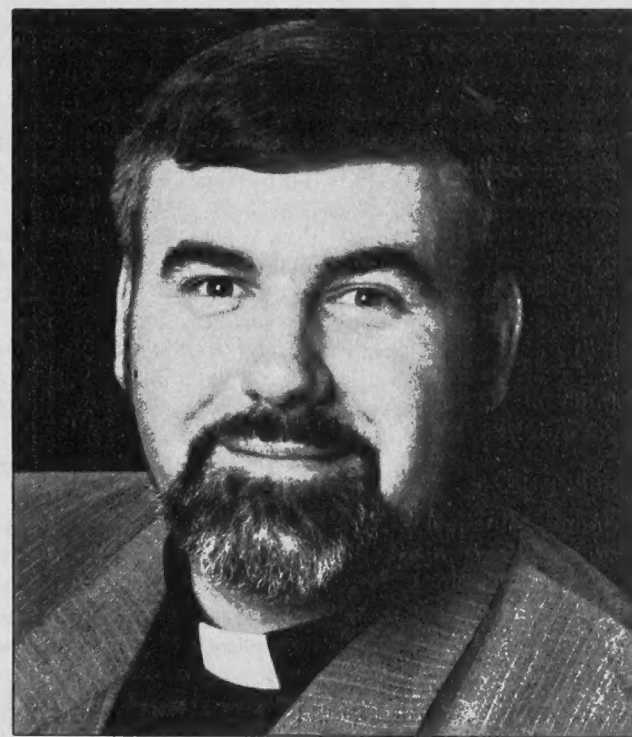

"In 1990 I joined the Reform Party because I had lost all confidence in the ability or willingness of the three old-line parties to represent ordinary Canadians in Parliament. Somehow our system has evolved so that Members of Parliament answer first to their party leaders, second to the special interest groups and lastly to their constituents. The situation is so extreme that MPs almost always appear to represent Ottawa to us, rather than us in Ottawa. This must change. The primary responsibility of a Member of Parliament must be to represent the interest and opinions of their constituents in Parliament. Period. In fact, this is the way the system is supposed to work. That's why I'm running this year - I want to "reconnect" all of us with our own government. With your support, I believe I can."

Outlook:

Devolin is an exceptional speaker and smart enough to respond to any questions posed. He'll do well in the local candidates forums, but his party lacks the national exposure enjoyed by the three mainstream parties. Reform popularity peaked several months ago in conjunction with the national referendum, and the party is now waiting for an opportunity to regain the public's eye. Devolin does not have the high profile of his competitors in and around Lindsay. The Lindsay factor, however, will likely be diluted with six candidates in this race.

Dennis Drainville, Ind.

The former Liberal, former New Democrat and soon-to-be former Member of Provincial Parliament is a surprise entry in this race. The candidate is a Baptist Church minister from Gooderham. Drainville earned a high profile in provincial parliament for his campaign against casino gambling and fight for government reform. He was an effective voice for his constituents and earned credit for his efforts in unveiling the inadequacies in the accounting process for Haliburton County's two hospitals.

The issues:

Representation is the main issue in Drainville's campaign. He will be carrying his fight for government reform over to the federal level. He says the current party system is too restrictive. Members are told to vote along party lines, regardless of what their constituents or consciences tell them. "We have to have someone in Ottawa to keep the government honest," he said. The candidate says his leap to federal politics is based on his belief that this is where the power lies. He says the provincial government can only react to federal economic policies.

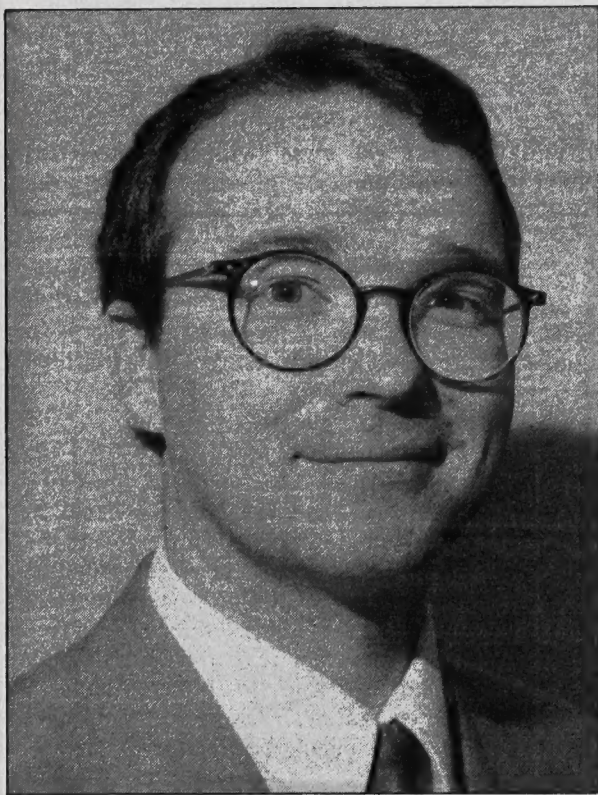

The candidate says:

"The Independent battle must now be carried on in Ottawa. Most of the obstacles facing the provinces are really the result of an unresponsive, elitist system dumping problems down to lower levels of government. Our difficulties could be solved if Canadian people were permitted to use their collective wisdom. We're in trouble because we've virtually abandoned democracy. My candidacy is partly a rebellion against an old style party system that must be bludgeoned into being responsive. I feel confident that when the people of Victoria-Haliburton realize that the challenge is for them, too, to stand up and be independent, they'll rally round. There's a lot of pioneer stock in my riding."

Outlook:

Drainville's dedication at the provincial level works in his favour. However, he will have to fight off the "quitter" label that he has been branded with since leaving provincial office. He is an eloquent speaker and has a solid grasp of most of the key issues. The candidate will likely tap support from all camps, but it's hard to gauge whether he's a real contender or just a fly in the ointment. Except for announcing his intentions, Drainville's campaign has not yet begun.

Federal Election '93

John O'Reilly, Liberal

Lindsay born and raised O'Reilly has been involved in campaigns since 1959. In the last two elections he ran childhood friend Bruce Glass' campaign and was the chief financial officer for John Eakins. This is his first attempt at his own seat in federal politics. He is currently a member of Lindsay town council holding down the position of chair of finance and personnel. Among the many positions he has held in community associations O'Reilly lists being involved in Neighborhood Watch and helping to establish Crime Stoppers at the top. He is also a former chairman of the Lindsay-Ops fire committee. He is currently on leave as an associate real estate broker with Royal LePage.

Issues:

O'Reilly lists several issues which he says have been identified to him by voters. The main one is jobs. O'Reilly says he has seen the effects of unemployment in his own family and knows the loss of dignity and self-esteem it causes. He sees Haliburton as a logging area and advocates massive reforestation as a way to kick start jobs in the area. He cites the need for improving the infrastructure of towns and the country's research and development sector. He would also like to make the area more financially attractive to American tourists by cutting the GST. In other areas he follows the Liberal party line: free trade was a better deal for the Americans than it was for Canadians and cites the closure of the Uniroyal and Abex plants in Lindsay as proof. He believes less money should be spent on defence.

The candidate says:

"You will hear during the campaign that we have an eight point program for Victoria-Haliburton and I will keep that message. In a campaign we never know the curves that will be thrown until they happen. The provincial by-election is the first major adjustment that may cause massive confusion in the course of a campaign. The eight points are: Employment, Municipal infrastructure, family issues, research and development, our natural resources and the environment, free trade and NAFTA, government spending and agriculture.

Outlook:

He is the best chance in 25 years the Liberals have had of winning this riding, largely because Bill Scott is not running. He's politically experienced, personable and approachable. Very involved in the Lindsay community, but he is less well known in Haliburton County. Must hang on to the previous level of Liberal support in this area to win.

Cathy Vainio, NDP

Omeme resident Vainio has been a New Democrat since 1968 when she lived in Sudbury. This is her second try at a federal seat in the Victoria-Haliburton riding. In the 1988 election she recorded a respectable 17 per cent of the vote and finished third behind PCs and Liberals despite having only four weeks to campaign. Trustee on the Victoria County Board of Education from 1985 to 1988. Has been associated with a number of groups in Victoria including V.C. Family Resources, V.C. Women's Resources. Is currently an occasional teacher in the Peterborough and Victoria school systems and has been a teacher and social worker in the past.

Issues:

Jobs, jobs, jobs. Canada should be a country where there are no excessively rich people and no one in grinding poverty - socialism. Wants to help people help themselves. Points out that it costs an average of $17,500 for each unemployed person in Canada and with 1.6 million people out of work that equals $26 billion or 70 per cent of the annual deficit. All other issues like education, medicare, pensions all come back to getting people back to work she says. (The NDP job strategy pamphlet can be had free of charge by calling 1-800-361-6637). Hopes voters will think about Canada first and not just their own selves.

The candidate says:

"The electorate is well aware of the problems confronting this nation. People would rather hear solutions than be reminded of the dismal record. But there must be accountability. The simple fact is that those with the dismal record want to be returned to power. These are the people who since 1966 ballooned the national debt from 27 billion to 458 billion. That debt figure equals our annual gross domestic product. These are the same people who tell us that they are the fixers, that they have solutions and that New Democrats can't run the economy. We can end the deficit problem by getting people back to work. That is the New Democrat plan for Canada."

Outlook:

Has previous experience running a campaign and is feisty (at least in conversation), but must overcome the Bob Rae factor. If she can improve on the 17 per cent she won in the last election she could challenge in a five way race, but realistically will play the spoiler role. Will lose some NDP votes to Dennis Drainville, but could pick up unhappy Tory voters.

The light side

With the federal election just one week old the excitement of the campaign is starting to unfold. The Prime Minister has already visited the riding and other party heavies are expected in the weeks ahead. The multicoloured, festive campaign trappings are beginning to appear on roadsides and on lapels across the country and the media is hanging on the candidates' every word.

On October 26, however, the excitement will come to an abrupt halt. The banners, buttons and balloons will soon be gone and we'll have to live with the consequences of our decision. There'll be no more visits from the Prime Minister and, potentially, no more interest in what the constituents have to say. Constituents, after all, are only important for the duration of the campaign.

In many ways, an election resembles a circus sideshow. The serious side of politics is pushed aside for a brief spell and candidates put on a play, like actors concentrating more on appearance than substance. They tell us what they believe we'd like to hear -- rarely intending to follow through when the curtain falls.

Campaigns are fun, and sometimes funny. With this in mind, we've introduced some new columns that we'll run for the duration. The first is Harpoon, which pokes some fun at the local and national campaigns. While it's written with humour in mind, Harpoon is also intended to illustrate the frustration and futility of an unresponsive system of democracy.

The second column is about our seventh candidate, Pat. The candidate is a fictional character whose far-fetched campaign promises are, in reality, not very far from many Canadians' perceptions of real politicians. Pat will be commenting on local and national issues for the next few weeks from his campaign headquarters in the heartland of Haliburton County.

We hope you get a chuckle out of our lampoon, but we also hope you'll look for the serious side of this election. The campaign is our one brief opportunity to force the candidates to address the issues. We need to look beyond the grease paint and find out who our candidates really are.

Candidates read the papers. Let them know what's important to you in a letter to the editor.

Clean government, crime, the deficit, the environment, immigration, inflation, job creation, leadership, medicare, free trade, national unity and taxes are among the issues on the national stage.

Voters: Meet candidate Pat

A seventh candidate has now joined in the election race in Victoria-Haliburton.

Pat, the former chairman of the Haliburton County Peanut Picker's Association, announced last week that he will represent the Wannabe Party in the October 25 federal election. He also intends to run in the provincial by-election in this riding.

To find out more about this candidate, we conducted a comprehensive telephone interview with Pat at his campaign headquarters near Elephant Lake. The following is a transcript of that interview.

Times: Pat, is this your real name?

Pat: No.

Times: Why are you using an alias?

Pat: That's so I can avoid all those annoying calls. I don't want to hear people's problems. As long as people don't know who I am, they can't call. Besides, there's still that business with Revenue Canada... er, forget I said that.

Times: Why are you seeking election?

Pat: I believe the people of this riding deserve strong representation in both the federal and provincial governments. I'll offer leadership with a difference. I have an open-door policy. People can call me at any time of the day or night with their problems and I'll be more than willing to listen to their problems.

Times: But, you said...

Pat: Never mind what I said. I'm a politician.

Times: Your idea to run for provincial and federal office is unusual. What happens if you win both?

Pat: There's no ifs about it. When I win I'll be Victoria-Haliburton's man... er, person... in Ottawa and at Queen's Park. It's not as though either is a full-time job. Besides, I don't plan to set up offices in Ottawa or Toronto. Instead, I'll buy a satellite dish and watch question period on TV. That way I can spend more time in the riding doing the really important stuff like going to Rotary meetings and riding in fair parades.

Times: What qualities do you have that make you the best candidate for office?

Pat: I'm a senior, I'm unemployed, I'm handicapped, I'm not white and I'm a woman.

Times: A woman?

Pat: Did I say that? What I meant to say was that sometimes I'm a woman.

Property protected in case of emergency

Editor:

This letter is written in response to a letter that appeared in The Times on September 7, 1993.

I am a resident at the building in question and would like to inform the public that we are very well protected in case of fire or any other emergency. There are several people who have a master key to the apartments, including the Minden Fire Department.

We also have escape doors to the outside from our apartments. We also have a buddy system if anyone cares to implement it. This is a system where we exchange apartment keys with a near neighbour in case of emergency. We trust our neighbours to be honest and use it in an emergency only.

I am independent and secure in my home.

Pat holds the key to her own future

Times: What do you see as the key issue in these elections?

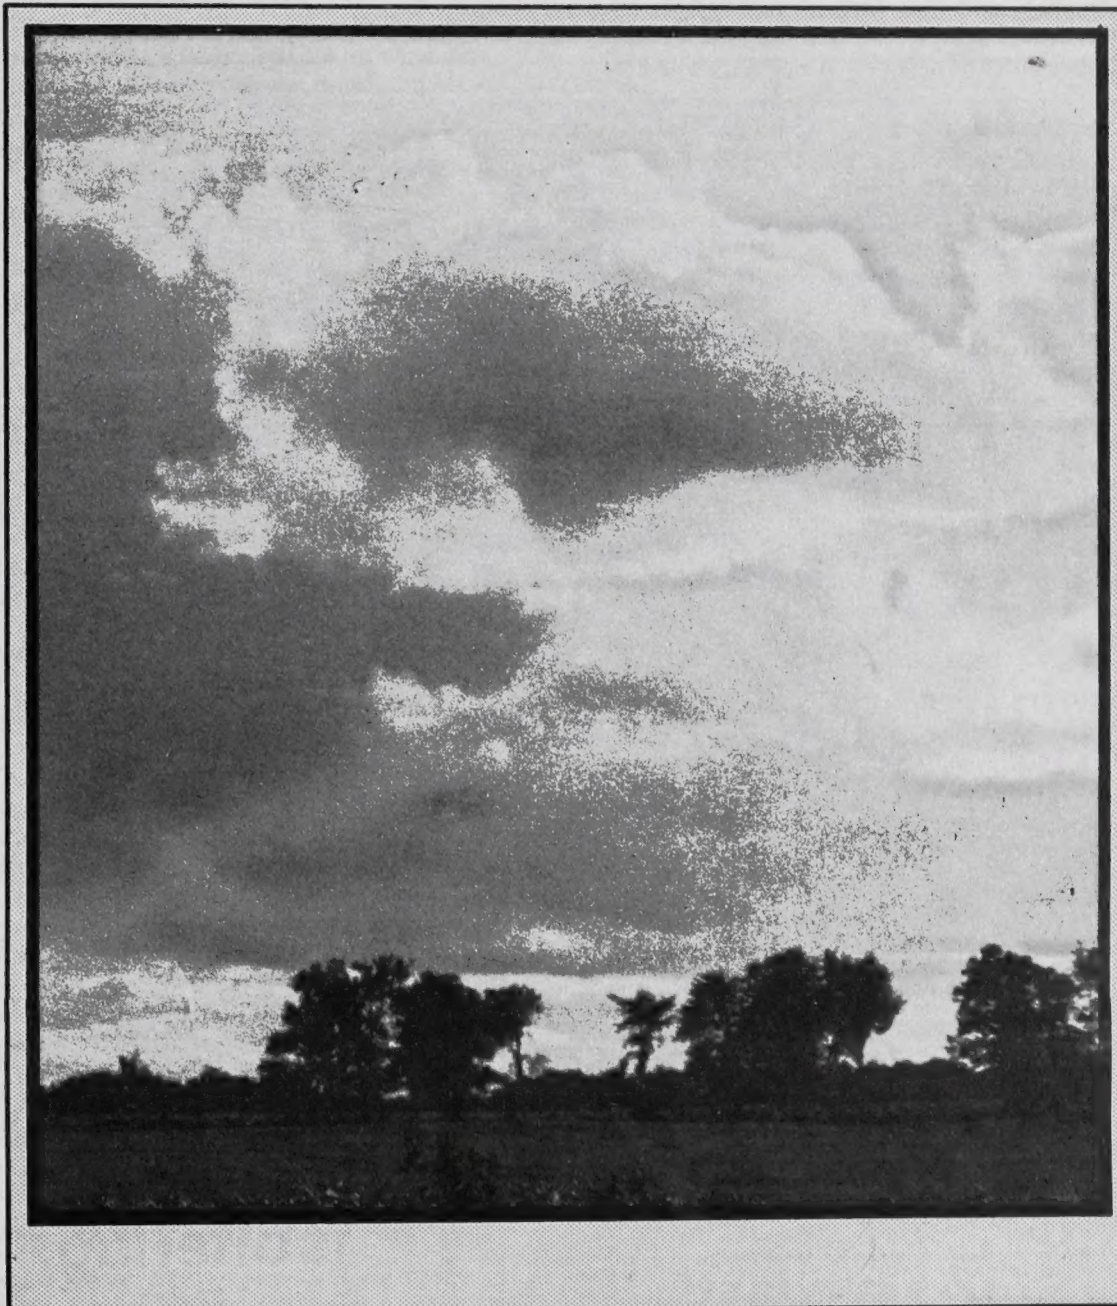

Pat: Jobs. I sincerely believe that jobs are good. If I'm elected, everyone in Canada will have a job. And if they don't have jobs, they can go on pogie. And if their pogie runs out they can get welfare. And for those who don't get welfare, I'll provide subways.

Times: Subways?

Pat: That's right. I'll make sure there are enough subway grates across this great land to keep all of our street people warm at night.

Times: What about the Senate reform?

Pat: When I'm elected, I'll make it my mission to do something about Senate. All those lazy so-and-sos do is sit back in their cozy offices and collect fat paycheques. They eat well, sleep plenty and don't really do any work. Um, how does one become a Senator?

Muskoka shuns outdoors for indoor track

To quote the eminently quotable Yogi Berra... a fella can learn a lot by just watching. I was doing some watching up in Muskoka recently. Ontario cottage country, that is — all wooded hills and jewel-like lakes and chuckling rivers... Actually I wasn't watching, I was doing a speech at one of the swanky new hotel complexes that opened up there not long ago. Last Saturday morning I had a few hours to myself, so I wandered around, checking out the place.

That's when I saw the sign. "COMING SOON" it read, "A BRAND NEW INDOOR RUNNING TRACK!"

Indoor running track?

Here I was in some of the most beautiful country that Canada has to offer, several hundred thousand acres of unfenced, unpolluted real estate with clean air, panoramic vistas and uncrowded roads where a galoot could jog himself to death if he cared to...

And they were advertising an indoor running track?

Why?

I brooded about it over a beer with a pal of mine in the pub later that night. "It's not too complicated, ya dummy" she said. "An indoor running track is watch-a-use on those days when it's too rainy or too cold or too snowy to run outside."

Black 'n White

by Arthur Black

I don't buy it.

Rain and snow and cold are just nature's way of telling you to pull the covers over your head and forget about exercise until the weather clears — if not longer.

Besides, the Indoor Running Track makes a perverse kind of sense if you view it in the context of other bizarre exercise options of late.

How about treadmills? You know — where you put on your shorts and your nine-way self-inflating running shoes and a head band... and then you step on to a rubber roller and pass a sweaty half-hour pretending that you're actually loping through the countryside?

Or what about exercise bikes? Is it not somewhat insane that fitness fanatics use these gizmos to cycle like dervishes in basements and rec rooms and exercise clubs — when they could just as easily jump on a real two-wheeler and cycle around the block?

What is it about ersatz exercise anyway? Eatons and Simpsons and the Bay advertise rowing machines — diabolical contraptions consisting of pulleys and clamps and levers that you can strap yourself into and pretend you're rowing a boat.

Why not just go down to the boathouse, lay down your five buck deposit and take out a for-real dory? It'll be a lot more fun than trying to row across your living room floor.

Or how about the ultimate in whacky workouts — The Stairmaster? For several hundred dollars you can risk a hernia levering a machine into your home that recreates the act of... climbing stairs.

Do you have any idea how easy it is to climb stairs... for free? Hotels have staircases. So do malls and condos and office buildings and hospitals. Hell, most houses have stairs — who needs to buy a stair-climbing machine?

Actually, folks may already be figuring this out. There's a brand-new exercise mecca down in Los Angeles. It's called the Fourth Street Steps. It's a 189-step staircase that leads from the beach to the rim of the Santa Monica canyon and it's where all the hippest of the hip LA fitness buffs line up to strut their stuff. One trip up and down the stairs is equal to running up and down the stairwell of a ten-storey building. Nowadays, the Fourth Street Steps are awash with spandex-clad, Evian water-bearing fitness freaks lumbering up and down and up the stairs smiling conspiratorially at one another.

Exercise. I stole my personal philosophy from a chap by the name of Chauncey Depew. Old Chauncey said "I get my exercise acting as a pallbearer to my friends who exercise."

Campbell crayons: Red, white...and blue

Prime Minister Kim Campbell's penchant for note taking was embraced by the folks at Binney and Smith. They presented the PM with a gigantic blue crayon that's sure to last her through the campaign. Campbell said the crayon company's management style is an example "of what our country has to do." Binney and Smith is now American owned.

On the Buses

While Campbell's bus made its way through downtown Lindsay traffic, the Prime Minister got a larger-than-life look at the smiling face of one of her opponents. Reform candidate Barry Devolin's mug is pasted on the side of Lindsay transit buses.

Polite Politician

Reform candidate Devolin gets top marks for manners. His campaign posters ask voters to "please" elect him.

Heel

What if you gave a party, and you weren't invited? While his leader cavorted with the media and the public, Conservative candidate Lorne Chester remained firmly in the background unable or unwilling to speak up.

Memory Loss

At a National Party public meeting hopeful Marvin Rabjohn advocated marijuana use while forgetting the third part of his party's line of honesty, integrity and openness. Later on Rabjohn joined voters for coffee, but no munchies were in sight.

Bob's World

Premier Bob Rae said he doesn't think his involvement in the federal NDP campaign would hurt the party despite the large voter resentment against him in the province. Is the sky blue in Bob's world? Does it ever rain? Is it a good place to take a vacation from the real world and how much does it cost?

Vote For Yourself

You may have noticed there are no candidates running under the Rhino banner this time out. That's because a new rule requires a $1,000 deposit from each candidate. However, the cash poor party says they want everyone to vote for themselves by simply putting their name on the ballot and placing an X next to your name. Hey, if you can't trust yourself who can you trust.

The Shirt

Liberals are beaming these days because leader Jean Chretien is now sporting a youthful, blue denim shirt. The Shirt, as it is becoming known, has taken 10 years off Jean's looks and updated his image. Too bad the same thing can't be said for what comes out of his mouth. At last sighting candidate John O'Reilly still wears a suit.

Dennis The Menace

Former Reform Party hopeful and Ontario Taxpayers Federation spokesman Paul Pagnuelo says Dennis Drainville has dealt himself a nice hand in leaving provincial politics while dealing a losing one to his constituents. His newsletter says D.D. has walked out on the province with "$22,337 of our hard-earned tax dollars," as part of his severance package. Pagnuelo states, "And not unlike marriage, in politics there's a responsibility and commitment to stick it out until death or divorce do us part." Does this mean we're entitled to half of everything Dennis has?

Just The Fax

From The Times fax machine comes the following oh-so-exciting events:

Liberal John O'Reilly will be mainstreeting in Bethany and Millbrook today, and in Sunderland and Beaverton on Tuesday. O'Reilly wins this week's "most sheets of fax paper used contest" with an astounding 12 sheets of paper easily outdistancing his nearest rival PC Lorne Chester who had only five sheets. O'Reilly will be visited by Sheila Copps this week.

Chester signed his election papers to officially begin his campaign.

The National Party will elect a candidate tonight in Fenelon Falls. On Friday they had two nominees, Marvin Rabjohn and Martin Doyle.

Police car stolen

A police car was stolen last week on Highway 401 near Highway 20. Apparently, a Brighton OPP officer stopped a stolen vehicle. After the officer got out of his car and approached the vehicle the driver got out, hopped into the police cruiser and drove away. This has nothing to do with the election, but it's an example of the silliness which occurs while the campaigns are on. Besides, it's just darn funny.

While electing a leader is serious business each week until election day The Times staff will be taking a look at the lighter side of the various campaigns.

The Ontario Slalom Canoe Championships took place over the weekend at the Minden Whitewater Preserve. These two-person entrants were attempting the course during practices on Saturday. The course proved tricky for most, but canoers had as many chances as they wanted to tame the mighty Gull.

Minden Royals area champs

Local bantam hardball team takes top spot in northern division

by Thomas Bagshaw

The Minden Royals bantam hardball team had a very successful inaugural season as they wound up as the top team in the area.

In the regular season the Royals played 12 games and lost just three of them. At the final tournament in Cameron and Cambray the boys played five games in one day and were undefeated. The end result was that the Royals were declared champions of the northern region and collected $190 for their win.

The Royals were supposed to play the winning team from the south region, but this could not be arranged as they did not have a tournament and did not know which team had finished first in the regular season.

There are a number of people who should be thanked for their help during the first season of the Royals. Lonnie and Judy Davis and Andy McKenzie for organizing the Royals, Al Eskelin for helping me out, my wife Marilyn for keeping score and our three main umpires - Bill Stackhouse, Warren Payne and Mark Thompson.

Thanks should also go to the people who helped umpire the bases and the parents who supported the team with their presence at the games. As parents of these boys we should all feel very proud, as I'm sure we do, as they are a great bunch of guys.

Minden is tops

Ivan Ingram and his workers kept the ball park in good shape and should be commended.

Finally thanks to Tommy Bagshaw, Justin Rowden, David Raback, Chris Eskelin, Jeff Wray, Sheamus Donnery, Andrew McKelvey, Darren Mills, Jamie Swinson, Tommy Neville, Jeremy Durkin and Ian Clements. As coach of these boys I would like to tell them how much I enjoyed being with them and being their coach. They had a tremendous season and Minden should be proud of the way the team represented our town.

Too bad they couldn't beat the parents in our little fun game - better luck in the future.

Local senior curlers take to the links for tourney

by Aileen Blears

*I care not Fortune, what you me deny:
You cannot rob me of free Nature's grace.*

Thomson - "The Castle of Indolence"

So the putt didn't quite make it, or it went rollicking past the hole - no matter - the day was full of Nature's grace (and a little of Her power when She painted the sky blue-black and unleashed the Gods of rain, thunder and lightning.

Sixty-two members of the Minden Senior Curling Club dotted the greens and fairways of Blairhampton Golf Course on Wednesday, September 8.

For most of the golfers, the weather was perfect - then the sky opened, and those in the last two flights could have exchanged their golf spikes for swim fins. However, everyone made it back to the 19th hole where some decided that as long as they were wet on the outside, they might as well be wet on the inside. (To avert catching a cold?)

Deer Lodge was the next stop on this annual outing, and after a tasty buffet dinner, John Warren mastered the ceremonies with aplomb. Billie Shuyler graciously presented the Dave and Billie Shuyler Trophy to tournament winners (with a score of 35): Roly Scott, Merle Codlin, Wilf Jarvis and Chris Dollo. Second place was won by Earl McDonald, Bill O'Neill, Clara Warren and Bill Trapp. Merle Codlin was closest to the hole for the ladies, and Ralph took the honours in the same category. Lady with the longest drive was Clara Warren. Man with the longest drive was John E. Thomas.

Several articles were donated for door prizes by Blairhampton Golf Club, and were won by Jean Jackson (a putter), and Bill Milford (a golf umbrella). Russ Fair, Dave McAdam and Tom Hurtt also were lucky draw winners. Thank you to Blairhampton for their generosity.

Before dinner, Hazel and Jack Gregory were toasted on the occasion of their 65th wedding anniversary. They delighted those present by dancing to the Anniversary Waltz. Later, a corsage was given to Hazel. Along with it went the sincere congratulations of the entire group.

The committee for this really well-run tournament was made up of John Warren, Jack Harrington and Jack Robson. Jack was unable to attend because of a personal family matter. Muriel Harrington was on the job, as usual, collecting the golf fees, and helping to see that things were running smoothly.

No games

There were no games played in the Muskoka District Soccer League last week due to the Labour Day weekend.

The league took a well-earned break, but the teams were back in action yesterday and results will be published next week.

The playoffs are also on the horizon as summer turns into fall. Most teams have less than a handfull of games left to be played.

Haliburton Westside Jug City plays at home this Sunday for their final game of the year. Spectators are welcome to watch the game at the high school.

Female lobbying

There was plenty of action in Norland last Saturday as a ladies' lob-ball tournament was held at Ward Memorial Park.

Mann family on the mend

by Andy Holloway

What started out as a happy family Canada Day drive turned into a near disaster for a Minden family, but proving the human spirit can take quite a knock, the Manns are bouncing back.

Arnold, Lee and their young son Aaron are thanking their lucky stars as they survived a horrific crash on Highway 35 just north of Fenelon Falls on July 1.

The three were headed to Bowmanville to visit Arnold's parents when a car heading northbound swerved, apparently to miss hitting a turtle, straight into the Mann's pick-up. A third car was also involved in the accident. The crash knocked both Arnold and Lee unconscious, but Aaron, who was in the far right seat, managed to remain alert enough to help rescue his parents.

"He went through the same crash we did yet still had the presence of mind to push on his door with his shoulder. If it wasn't for him we could have been crispy critters," says Arnold.

Right after the crash, Aaron asked his mother if she was OK. When she didn't respond Aaron woke her up and helped pull Lee out of the car. However, he couldn't get his father out because the door was jammed shut. With the help of several passers-by Arnold was pulled out of the truck seconds before the truck burst into flames.

Aaron says the fire was small at first, but suddenly grew. "There was a little fire under the truck, but a man put his foot on it and it went out ... and then it just burst."

The pick-up (which is pictured below) was completely demolished by the crash and subsequent fire. The driver of the vehicle, an Oshawa woman, was later charged with careless driving.

Aaron escaped with some bruises, but his parents were much more seriously injured. Lee suffered a broken nose and several bruises and a kind of whiplash probably caused by the fact she was in the middle seat and was wearing a seat belt without a shoulder strap.

Arnold received the brunt of the blow and consequently the severest injuries. His hip was broken as were several ribs, there was some internal bleeding in his liver and spleen and he also had a broken nose. He was rushed to Ross Memorial Hospital in Lindsay and then when he was stabilized was air lifted to Toronto's Sunnybrook Hospital where he underwent five hours of surgery on his hip. Lee says he went through three weeks where it was very tough before he was allowed out of intensive care.

While at the scene Arnold says he kept slipping in and out of consciousness, but remembers the truck being on fire and asking over and over, "Are my wife and son OK." Later on the drive to the hospital he held Lee's hand and kept

(more on page 16)

The Mann family of Minden, Aaron, Lee and Arnold, are on the mend and thank all of their family, friends and neighbors for helping them recover from a horrifying accident.

Thieves hurt Minden service clubs

by Andy Holloway

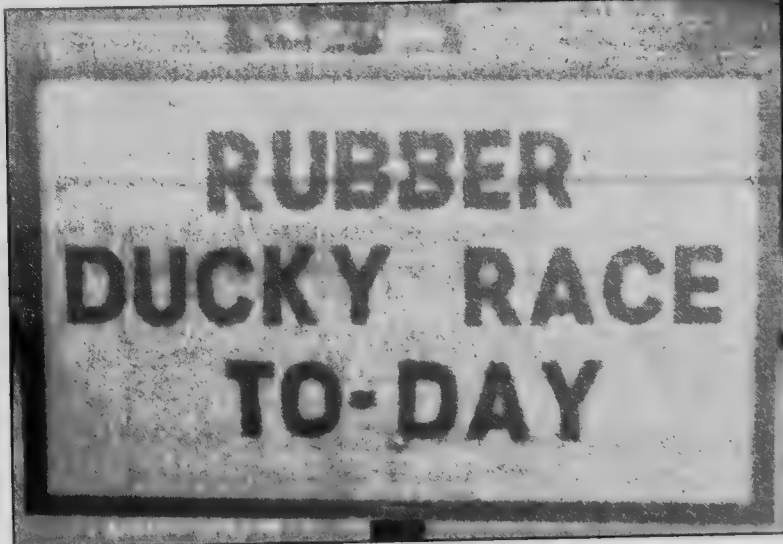

Two Minden service organizations had property stolen in two separate incidents last week.

Sometime before Tuesday someone stole a Canadian flag from the Legion Cenotaph outside the Agnes Jamieson Gallery. Ken Walsh noticed the flag was missing Tuesday morning and later found the rope had been cut.

Legion president Don Holden said it is a shame that people are not showing respect for those honoured by the cenotaph and nearby cairn. The two memorials honour those Canadians killed in combat duty overseas.

Holden and Walsh replaced the flag last Thursday and have raised the rope to about eight feet off the ground in an attempt to discourage further vandalism.

On Saturday, September 4 two signs advertising the Lions annual Rubber Ducky Race went missing from South Water Street between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. The return of the signs would be appreciated by the Lions. The signs can be returned to either Westside Jug City or McMahon's Feed Store.

Above: Ken Walsh (left) and Legion president Don Holden show where a thief cut the rope on the Cenotaph in order to steal a Canadian flag. The Legion has since replaced the flag and added some preventive measures.

Left: Two signs like the one pictured here were stolen or misplaced on Saturday, September 4. The Lions Club would appreciate it if the signs were returned.

Family stays together

asking, "What happened?"

Just over two months later, Arnold is allowed home on weekends, but must spend the rest of the week at St. John's Hospital in Toronto to receive therapy. The family hopes to be allowed to receive physiotherapy at the Haliburton Hospital soon which would mean he could spend more time here.

But they're still not sure what happened. "We're still debating whether we had any warning at all or whether it just happened so fast that there was nothing we could do," says Arnold.

Arnold still can not put any amount of pressure on his left foot and probably won't for another month or so, but he does get around with the aid of crutches. A further complication occurred because Arnold is allergic to aspirin so his doctors had to use radiation treatment to make sure his hip did not bind up on him.

The accident has meant a major readjustment for the Manns. Lee was forced to sell her hairdressing business, Head Inn, so that she could stay home and look after Arnold, and the doctor recommends that Arnold have a career change. Before the crash he was an electrician at PineStone Inn, but he will probably have to do something that requires less movement which is tough for him to take because he has always been active.

"As far as changes go, besides the physical injuries and the way the summer has turned out, we now appreciate how fragile and how quick things can turn around," says Arnold.

The Manns do have a message for all of the people who have helped them through the summer with cards, fruit baskets and prayers. Thanks.

New man on the beat

OPP Constable Mike Landry will be in the public eye with his new job as the detachments Community Services Officer.

Landry, an 11-year veteran with the OPP replaced Constable Mike Maybee in the community relations role last week. He says he is looking forward to promoting a close relationship with the public in this new capacity.

Landry began a career at the Bracebridge detachment more than 11 years ago. He served there for three years before moving on to Oak Ridges in York Region.

He has been in Haliburton County for four and a half years and enjoyed close contact with the community while serving for the past year and a half as the Community Policing officer in Haliburton Village.

"With community policing, I got involved in the schools," he said Friday. "I like that aspect of the job. I like the new ideas of community policing," he said.

As the Community Services Officer, Landry will be making presentations to the area's schools, service clubs and various other organizations. He will be responsible for preparing information for the CrimeStoppers program and will also act as the detachment's liaison for the media.

Landry says he will be working closely with Maybee for the next few months in order to get a better handle on the various aspects of this new job. He will also be taking a course in community relations through the OPP.

Constable Mike Landry is the Minden OPP's new public relations officer taking over from Constable Mike Maybee.

Blacksmith returns in Kinmount

by Jerry Grozelle

A sound that was common to all blacksmith shops of yesteryear can be heard again, emanating from a 25-foot square shop on the north end of the old Kinmount train station.

For the past few months, the sound of hammer against steel has become familiar to anyone who frequents the village of Kinmount.

Kevin Robillard, who is not only a blacksmith, but an artist and craftsman to boot, has set up his forge and metal working tools in the heart of the village.

Robillard said that setting up his shop at the old train station has been a "community project."

It started when Somerville Council was approached and asked if it would provide the space for Robillard to set up his equipment. The old train station, because of its location, was suggested as an ideal place. The part that is now occupied by the blacksmith shop was being used for storage and was in bad need of repairs.

Council agreed that having a blacksmith shop there might attract a few visitors to the village. A concrete floor and some roof repairs provided the foundation for Robillard to move his equipment from his residence just east of Norland. Once the basic needs were taken care of, Robillard and friends started with some renovations. Leon Wright donated some logs to be made into lumber for the interior walls. George Brown and Bob Tudor skidded the logs out to Clarence Mitchell's sawmill, where they were converted to lumber. Helping out with the renovations were John Windrem and Doug Parsons.

A few things have yet to be done, like a wall to divide the room in half, some insulation and the addition of a window. But in the meantime, Robillard is busy creating everything from fireplace tools, lathe chisels and other tools to weather vanes, candle holders, chandeliers and sculptures.

"I do mostly ornamental work," Robillard said. "But I also make some tools and parts for buggies and sleighs."

Wheelwrighting is also among his many talents. That involves repairing old buggy wheels and installing new steel "tires" on the wooden wheels.

Blacksmithing is something that Robillard, who will celebrate his 40th birthday later this month, learned about early in life.

"I grew up around it," he says. "My uncle was a blacksmith back in Penetang, where I came from. I've always had a fascination for it."

The centre of Robillard's shop is the small coal-fired forge where the pieces of steel are heated to just the right shade of red, or in some cases, white. Different types of steel require different temperatures to make them workable and it takes a trained eye and quite a bit of experimentation to know which colour works best for the metal that is being used.

Blacksmith a tourist attraction

"I grew up around it. My uncle was a blacksmith back in Penetang where I came from. I've always had a fascination for it"

Blacksmith
Kevin Robillard

He uses blacksmith or forge coal, which comes from St. Jacobs, in the Kitchener area.

Besides the forge, Robillard considers his two anvils next in importance to his craft. The smaller of the two weighs 168 pounds and the bigger one tips the scales at 300 pounds. With a rack full of various hammers and other hammer-like tools to choose from, the Kinmount blacksmith usually uses one particular hammer that is his favorite.

"Every blacksmith has a favorite hammer. This is mine and it happens to be the heaviest one I have," he says showing off a well used three pounder with a short handle.

There are three items in the Kinmount blacksmith shop that wouldn't have been found in a similar establishment a century ago. Robillard has an electric cut-off saw, an arc welder and a drill press. But the vast majority of the work he does is with hand tools like the ones that were used by blacksmiths 200 years ago. Many of the tools he uses, he has made himself.

"Sometimes you have to make tools as you go along," he said. "The variety of tools is just about endless."

Robillard has never had what would be considered formal training in the blacksmith trade. He has picked up his knowledge mostly through hands-on experience and trial and error.

It seems the idea of a blacksmith shop attracting attention to the village is working.

Even though he has only been at the Kinmount location for a few months Robillard gets a lot of people dropping in to watch him work. He says he thinks it is the link to the past that draws them in.

Prices for the items that Robillard makes range from a few dollars to several hundred dollars for some of the larger and more intricate pieces. As an example, his weather vanes go for $125.

Three years ago Robillard was invited by Ontario Northland to work in Moose Factory Island at the old Hudson Bay Post, which has the oldest known blacksmith shop in Ontario. His job was to train two students in the basics of blacksmithing so they could work in the shop as a tourist attraction.

A couple of years ago Robillard met a man from France who asked him to make a chandelier. Making a chandelier is no easy task at the best of times, but this one presented a special challenge. This particular chandelier had to be made so it would fold up and fit into a suitcase (it must have sent the X-ray machine at the airport into orbit). On top of that, the guy was leaving for France in a week.

The next week the happy customer boarded a plane, hand-crafted chandelier in suitcase.

"I enjoy the artistry, using my imagination and thinking ahead," Robillard said. "I like something that presents a challenge. You have to picture what it is going to look like and be careful not to box yourself into a corner by doing the wrong thing first."

For Robillard, blacksmithing is a continual learning experience.

"You should learn something every day," he says.

There's no punching of a time clock at Robillard's shop. Most days, he opens his door at about 8 a.m. and on occasion, he's still there at midnight.

For anyone interested in taking a short journey into the past, the Kinmount Blacksmith Shop is located on Station Street, a stone's throw from the bridge in Kinmount.

Committee attempts to improve violence against women program

In an attempt to improve services provided for women who have been abused the Ontario government has decided to merge its initiatives regarding violence against women.

To respond to these changes the Haliburton County Committee Against the Abuse of Women is holding a community consultation on Wednesday, September 22. The committee would like to hear the public's ideas about improving the existing services in the county for women who have been physically, emotionally or sexually abused.

The meeting will provide an opportunity to discuss the services which have worked well in our community and to address any problems or gaps in the types of services offered. Those who can not attend the meeting, but wish to share their ideas can call Sheila Ziman at 754-2532.

The consultation will also provide a forum for evaluating the government's priorities regarding violence against women. For example, present initiatives focus on services, prevention and education and justice. About 85 per cent of government funding has been used to provide community based services, such as shelters and counselling to women who are survivors of abuse or sexual assault. Ten per cent of funding has been used to develop prevention and education programs to change public awareness and attitudes. The other five per cent has been used to increase the effectiveness of the criminal justice system's response to women abuse.

Currently, the initiatives conduct training for crown attorneys, police, judges and correctional facility staff. Questions to consider include whether there has been enough training within the justice system about violence towards women and how could such training be more effective.

Appointing power of attorney should be thought out

Many seniors appoint a Power of Attorney without knowing exactly what it is, why they should use it or what safeguards may be necessary.

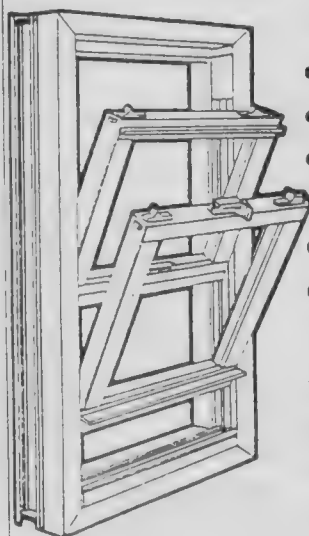

Giving a person Power of Attorney authorizes that person to act on your behalf as legal agent or "attorney."

The appointment of such a legal agent is often a good idea, especially if you plan to travel and need affairs handled in your absence, or if you feel you cannot manage your affairs due to infirmity or old age.

The appointment may be made long before it may be required and left in the care of a lawyer or other trustworthy person.

A booklet explaining Power of Attorney is available free of charge from your nearest Information Centre in Haliburton or Minden.

Drivers being warned it's deer mating season

While a young man's fancy may turn to thoughts of love in the spring, a young moose or deer begins to feel amorous in the fall.

These love struck animals are often involved in collisions with vehicles when they fail to yield the right-of-way in their search for a mate.

While the thought of an amorous moose may be humorous, the results of an animal/vehicle collision are not! In most cases, collisions with animals happen so quickly you don't have time to react.

According to 1991 Transport Canada statistics, 20,209 vehicles were involved in animal/vehicle collisions where damage was extensive enough that a police report was filed.

Wildlife experts have tried to reduce animal collisions with hunting programs, repellents and fences. Industry has responded with a number of products which, when mounted on a vehicle, are supposed to frighten animals away.

Unfortunately many of these devices have proved ineffective. Prevention is still the best solution.

Drivers should be particularly alert during the fall. Most animal/vehicle collisions occur from October through December, when animals mate, move to new feeding grounds and evade hunters. They are most active two hours before and after dark and can be expected to feed near the roadway.

A light tap on the horn well in advance will alert the animal and reduce the chance that you will frighten it and cause it to bolt or shy. When you feel it is safe, you should pass as far from the animal as possible.

After dark, when animals are harder to see, you should be particularly careful. Animals are often attracted to and become dazed by headlights. If there are no other vehicles in the area, you can flick your headlights quickly from dim to bright to break the animal's daze.

Crime of the week

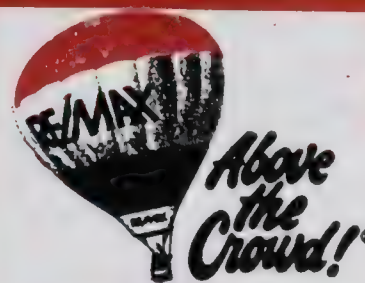

Van, 10 outboard motors stolen

Two break-ins in the Minden area netted thieves a cube van and 10 outboard motors during the evening hours of July 19-20. A 1988 Ford cube van white with "Moynes Furniture" was stolen, Ontario licence RC3571. That same evening, Wedgewood Marina was broken into. Stolen were 10 Mercury outboards of various horse powers and a '93 POLARIS 350 4x4 all terrain vehicle.

If you have any information about this or any other crime, call Lindsay Crimestoppers at 1-800-563-TIPS (8477). You will never be asked to reveal your identity or to testify in court. If your information leads to an arrest Lindsay Crimestoppers will pay up to $1,000 in cash.

Minden Lions scoop some of the 406 rubber duckies out of the Gull River after they cross the finish line on Saturday, September 4. The winning duck of the fourth annual race belonged to Mike Cummings of the Oshawa West Lions Club who won $300. Taking second and $200 was Tori Brown of Minden while Jack Brezina collected $100 as his duck took third.

Lions mane-tain work in summer

As this is my first article since late in June, bear with me while I reminisce about the great summer we all enjoyed.

Canada Day celebrations were a great success. Everyone involved with the organizing and planning of the events of the day, must be congratulated for their work. The river certainly was the focal point of the day with the first ever and, of course, the always interesting Crazy Craft Race.

The Lions Club wants to thank everyone for their support of our B.B.Q., and refreshment stand. The funds raised will be put to good use in your community.

Our Thursday night Bingo topped off the busy day for the Lions. Attendance surpassed all of our previous regular Bingos. The early bird game paid our $600, which was split equally by the game winner and the Minden Food Bank.

On Saturday, July 24, the dream of all Lions of District A-16 became a reality. Lions Club Camp Kirk, in Kirkfield, was officially opened. Approximately 200 Lions, Lioness and friends gathered for the impressive opening ceremonies. There were 21 campers present who had been enjoying the facilities for about 10 days. These children with learning disabilities entertained us with a song the Camp Director had written, "I'll Be Your Friend." Talking to and watching these children, it was easy to see they were enjoying the new camp. This year only two groups of campers will attend to enable the director and counselors to iron out any problems that may be present. Next summer, groups of up to 50 campers will spend one week at the facility with one counsellor for every three children.

For Your Service

There are a couple of new faces behind the counter at the Head Inn in downtown Minden. Golden is the stylist while Graham is the bookkeeper or as they kid "the brains behind the operation."

Lions mourn the death of Lioness Boekestyn

If you know of any child who may qualify for a week at this camp, please write the Minden and District Lions Club, Box 67, Minden, Ontario.

The County Fair drew a large crowd again this year. The Lions Talent Show had many very good participants take part.

The Third Annual Draw organized by Sylvia Howard and the seniors of Staunworth apartment raised more than $2,400 for Canine Vision Canada. The Minden Lions Club wants to thank Sylvia Howard, Jean and Arthur Marsh, Jean and Harry Cowan and everyone who assisted in the quilting and the sale of tickets.

Congratulations to the winners; Jill Russell of Burlington, the double bed quilt; Tim Rodkin of Ajax, the single bed quilt; and John Turner of Scarborough, the hand-knit Blue Jay sweater.

Another Rubber Ducky race success has passed with several hundreds of dollars being raised for Lioness and Lions Projects. Saturday, September 4 was a beautiful day weather-wise and a good crowd was at the river for race time.

Duck #449 was first to the finish line. Oshawa Lions Club holding that ticket receive $300 to assist them with their Community Services. Tori Brown of Minden with ducky #55 receives $200 for second prize and Jack Brezina with ducky #467 receives $100 for third prize.

The Minden Lioness and Lions Club want to thank everyone for their support in this annual event. You can be sure the proceeds will be put to good use in community projects.

Our Minden Lions Club is proud to be sponsoring the Regional Chairman, Lion Greg Readman, for the 93/94 year. Lion Greg is presently our secretary and is immediate Past President. We all are looking forward to joining Greg on his visitations to the other clubs in our district.

The sudden passing of Lioness President Maureen Boekestyn is a great loss to the Minden Lioness Club. Lioness Maureen will be greatly missed by the Lionesses throughout the district, and so very much in our own community.

In closing just a reminder of our Thursday night Bingos. Come early and play the Early Bird Game in support of the Minden Food Bank.

Free flu shot for seniors could save life

The annual bout with the "flu" that strikes so many Canadians each winter can be much more than just a nuisance. It can make you feel miserable for a few days. It can kill you.

Every year in Canada, 2,000 people die of flu. Most of these deaths could have been prevented. The National Advisory Committee on Immunization (NACI) states that "influenza vaccine is the single most effective way of preventing or reducing the effects of influenza and has long been recommended for those at high risk of serious illness or death." But only 45 per cent of these people get the vaccine each year.

In the past some of the worst flu outbreaks had names like the Spanish flu (1918), the Asian flu (1957) and the Russian flu (1977). The Spanish flu left 21 million dead. This year the Beijing flu is expected to infect 30 per cent of Canadians.

Anyone can get the flu. Classic symptoms include a bad cough, fever, chills, aches and pains, weakness and loss of appetite. It keeps people in bed for several days. Recovery takes several weeks. It also leaves a person susceptible to many other winter infections until their strength returns.

Senior citizens are in greater danger of death or complications from the flu. So are people with chronic medical conditions such as heart, lung, or kidney disease or metabolic disorders such as diabetes. People whose immune systems are weakened from infections, diseases or medical treatment are also at risk. Residents of nursing homes or homes for the aged usually fall into one or more of these high-risk groups and are more at risk because their setting may promote the spread of flu.

Although other viruses like the common cold may cause similar symptoms, true influenza can be life-threatening. Complications can arise when the body's resistance is weakened by flu. Bacterial pneumonia is the most common complication and is very dangerous in the elderly. Viral pneumonia, kidney failure and nervous system complications can also prove fatal.

Influenza can be prevented. Flu vaccine provides a safe and effective method of protecting those at greatest risk. Influenza vaccine can't protect those who don't get it. Influenza will continue to cause needless deaths until more people get the vaccine. If you or someone you know is over 65 or has a chronic medical condition, see your doctor in September or October for a flu shot. It's free, it's safe, it works. It could save your life.

For more information, call Dr. A. Hukowich, M.D., D.P.H., Medical Officer of Health, Haliburton, Kawartha, Pine District Health Unit (416) 885-9100.

Trent Severn water levels report

The lakes in the Haliburton area of the Trent-Severn Waterway averaged 66 per cent of maximum levels on Monday, August 30. This was down just more than 3.5 per cent on the week, and about 6 per cent lower than the same date in 1992.

Discharges of the tributary rivers and the Otonabee stayed very close to their respective long-term averages. Some more rain was received which kept Kawartha lakes levels from slipping down into their ranges as this week (ending Sept. 4) went along.

No large changes in flows or declines of lake levels are expected.

Seniors become clothes horses

It is Saturday again and we were fortunate to have Marjorie Rennick to play the piano and sing for us, I wasn't present as my great niece, Noelle LaRue was being married that afternoon. Saturday, August 28, 1993 was Nora Groves' birthday, congratulations Nora from the Residents.

Sunday Estella Burch had reading for us in the Primrose Lounge and we truly thank her. In the evening Rev. John Burgess held the chapel service for us and June Mason played the organ. We sincerely appreciate their being so faithful by coming so regularly.

Monday was back to work. Easy Living Clothing were here all day. By their coming, many Residents can choose what they need and it saves staff or volunteers going out to select for them.

The Tuesday morning chapel service was conducted by Pastor Murray, accompanied by his guitar music. Thank you Pastor Murray. In the evening Corinne organized card games which is quite a feat. Thank you Corinne.

Every year the Kawartha Dairy makes it possible for us to have all the ice cream we wish by having an old fashioned ice cream parlor set up in the auditorium. The dairy supplied the ice cream toppings etc., but this year it was served by Activities. Before we could have a sundae we were given the name of a song and we had to hum the tune. It was quite a chore for some of us. We also have a contest and a short sing-a-long. Everyone enjoyed

by Winnifred Barnum

the afternoon and we thank Kawartha Dairy for its generosity whole heartedly.

Wednesday evening we had Grandfathers 5 to entertain us. We enjoyed the evening in the Trillium lounge and thank you fellows very much.

The ladies from Kinmount Baptist Church provided a delicious lunch and social time on Thursday afternoon. One lady then read a prayer for the elderly and another read a poem. This was followed with a lively sing-a-long, led by the ladies and Doris played the piano. We truly thank these ladies, Doris Barkwell, Sarah Barkwell, Lori Spencer, Doreen Wilkinson and Sheryle Curriess.

Friday Leslie Schell, Earl and Sid Cooper made Happy Hour happy with their music and real old songs that brought memories of a long time ago. Thank you Les, Earl and Sid, also volunteers, Don and Ellen Holden, Dottie Muirhead, Pearl Cowen and Dori McAllister.

Our sympathy goes out to the relatives and friends of Mrs. Curry who passed away September 4, 1993 at 104 years old.

As I will be away for two weeks, from September 17, 1993 there will not be a column during that time.

"WHY I STORE AT HALIBURTON MARINE"

"I purchased my boat from Haliburton Marine and I have stored it there ever since. It always arrives on time, clean and never a problem with the engine. I wouldn't think of storing anywhere else."

Lyn Ward - Haliburton Lake

"This is my second boat I've purchased from Haliburton Marine. I believe in trust as most important to me. My pontoon boat is always taken care of and in first rate condition in spring."

J.C. Wilson - Soyer's Lake

"I have stored my boat at Haliburton Marine for 13 years and have always received friendly and helpful service and quality workmanship. I know it is a long way for them to come, but it is worth it to me."

Lorne Stepak - Harcourt Park

"I have stored my boat at Haliburton Marine since I purchased it there and have always received excellent service. I like the fact that my boat is left inside and on their property all winter. I understand that they are the only Marina who offers this guarantee."

H. Sollich - 3 Brothers Lake, Minden

"I have been a customer of Haliburton Marina since 1977. I am still a customer today because they deliver what they promise, when they promise. I don't need to look elsewhere with this type of service and attention to detail."

D. Witchell - Kashagawigamog Lake

"I store both my boats at Haliburton Marine because when I get them in the spring, I know they will be trouble free. I've always had excellent service and I feel comfortable leaving my boats where they are going to be safe and secured all winter."

Political structures feeding global economy beyond control

The great French molecular geneticist and Nobel prizewinner, Francois Jacob wrote that the human brain has a built-in need for ORDER. I was impressed at the corroboration of this statement when I threw a surprise birthday party for my wife, Tara. She believed my story that we were dropping in on my parents for a short visit before going out for a quiet dinner together. When the door opened at my parents', the first people Tara saw were her parents and then her best friend.

She later described how her mind immediately began to construct reasons for her parents' presence at her in-laws. "What a coincidence" she thought "that they happened to drop in too." Then seeing her friend, her mind had to twist even further to concoct something that seemed logical. All this happened within seconds until it became simply too absurd and she finally had to throw out "sensible" explanations and accept that it was a surprise. It illustrates how our minds try to force everything to conform to our expectations in order to maintain a sense of harmony in the world. This requirement for order has been a powerful evolutionary survival mechanism because it made our distant ancestors pay attention to their surroundings and take note of cycles, regularities and patterns in nature. From observed repetitions of changing tides or seasons, plant successions and animal migration, we were able to create a system that "made sense" and thus enabled us to predict and anticipate recurrent events. In this way, dangers could be avoided or advantages gained.

As a consequence of this proclivity for order, disorder and unpredictability are terrifying. I watched a child who was given one of those supercompressed balls that bounce much higher than a normal rubber one. When she threw the ball down and watched it rebound much higher than expected, her immediate reaction was a look of sheer TERROR. Suddenly the rules of ball behaviour that she already knew, had been violated and she had no way of making sense of it. The moment of shock and terror, passed in an instant and gave way to the delight of surprise. But I can't forget that first look of panic and fright. Throughout human history, we have attempted to understand the cosmic forces that regulate the events taking place around us. Of course we had to have fudge factors to cover the immensity of our ignorance so we invented deities, spirits and other factors that accounted for what lay beyond our comprehension. As we evolved from hunter-gatherers through agricultural to industrial societies, our organized worldviews and knowledge bases served us well. With larger aggregates of people in villages and towns, we created social, political and economic structures that gave a greater sense of regularity and control in our lives.

And it has culminated in this century's dramatic increase in human numbers concomitantly with technological and economic capacities that have grown so immense that they are having an impact on the biophysical makeup of the planet. And even as our scientific prowess erupts in scale and scope, researchers and the media are revealing that the very things upon which our lives are built, are being radically altered.

Reflections

by David Suzuki

Fishers in the Atlantic provinces are faced with a catastrophic decline in northern cod and groundfish. The great tracts of tropical, temperate and boreal forests that are the home to most of all life forms are being crudely torn apart with horrifying speed. Soil that has accumulated fertility over thousands of years is being lost rapidly through erosion, intensive agriculture and toxic chemicals. Water is being polluted planet-wide while the atmosphere itself is being modified by acid clouds, ozone depletion and accumulation of greenhouse gases. The skin of biological and physical factors that keep the Earth livable is being transformed.

Concurrently, the global economy and the political structures that feed it, now seem beyond control. This summer, currency speculators created wild fluctuations in value despite government and national bank efforts to stabilize them, thereby showing global economics is not "manageable" or dependable. Governments from Russia to the G-7 nations seem unable to cope with socio-economic problems confronting them while bureaucracies are so large and cumbersome that inertia precludes rapid response to crises.

Ironically, even as "experts" such as futurists strive to forecast the next millennium with greater certainty, the reality is that the degraded state of the Earth is disrupting the cycles in nature that our species has always relied on. At the same time, the political and economic institutions which were supposed to provide an envelope of security, are themselves out of control. So as we approach the 21st century, our lives have become far less secure, and thus more chaotic and terrifying than they were for our distant ancestors.

David Suzuki is a geneticist and also a spokesman on environmental matters.

Winners at the inter-branch dart tournament held at Branch 441 Kinmount Legion on August 28 included Rick Hartwick and Hillary Kelly high singles men and ladies; doubles winners Rick and Sabine, team winners, Bonnie, Joe, Dan and Richard and high score was Rick for the men with 180 and Sabine for the ladies with 134.

The lucky winner of the 50-50 draw at Kinmount was Kerri McCabe who collected $336. Congratulations Kerri.

Shirley Elcome is home again after spending a few weeks visiting in the Toronto area.

Sincere sympathy goes to the families and friends of the late Mrs. Tom Hamilton and Brent Sisson whose funerals were held recently.

Kit and Ralph Schroter had many of their family visiting from Sudbury and Oshawa on the holiday weekend.

Dorothy McElwain and

Tina Empey of Auburn have returned home after their Alaskan Cruise. Tina spent several days here visiting with Dorothy. They both had a great time on the cruise.

The home of Bob and Audrey Vick was very busy over the weekend as their family visited from Vandorf, Bridgenorth and Toronto.

The community sends good wishes to the following: Ann McAdam, Helen Johnson, Harry Earle and Loyne Cox.

Many family members visited Ruby Francis on the holiday weekend.

Shirley and Louis Johnston attended their son's wedding in Toronto recently.

Enjoyed going to the Kinmount Fair last Saturday with my daughter Carol and granddaughter Karen Leaman. The crowd was unbelievable and, as usual, an excellent show. We noted how capably the ambulance people took care of a lady who fell and had some fractures.

Summer activities seem to overlap for the seniors as 5 pin bowling leagues are started and shuffleboard and lawn bowling still continue. Seniors can be very busy indeed if they take in all that goes on.

Guests for me Sunday were Muriel Ewing of Toronto, my daughter and Randy Duncan from Cambridge.

Club 35 euchre winners on September 6 included for most lone hands Jean Scadden, Helen Lee and Harry Randall, high lady and man and others were Doreen Lewis, Edith Russell, Harold Smith and Ken Wallace.

Congratulations to Jack and Hazel Gregory on their 65th wedding anniversary September 19.

Branch 636 Royal Canadian Legion euchre game winners for September 2 included Vi Edgson and M.

Fletcher for most lone hands, Ida Young and Bill Kleinschmidt with high scores and others included Hilda Harrison, Helen Skelding, M. Fletcher, Ed Hisson and Bill Kleinschmidt again.

Results from the Royal Canadian Legion Minden Branch 636 Euchre on September 9 are: Most Lone Hands, Ladies - Betty Harper; Most Lone Hands, Men - Milton Fletcher; High Score, Ladies - Margaret Fletcher; High Score, Men - Verna McDonald; Low, Lady - Helen Lee; Low, Man - Tod Edgson; Other Prizes - Colin Brennan, Bea James, J. Scadden, Marie Dennie.

Autumn

It seems that summer is passing away
And I know that all of us
Wish it could stay.

None of us likes the snow and the cold,
Especially when we are getting old.
But now comes the nicest time of year,
When every one should be of good cheer.

The leaves will be changing their colours quite soon
And up in the sky there's a beautiful moon.

So let us all try to be good to each other
And not make people feel they are being a bother,
For the Lord watches over all day and night
And wants us to try to live our lives right.

IN MEMORIAM

MISCIO, Annie - A loving birthday tribute to a very dear mother and grandmother who left us on January 27, 1993.

It's lonesome here without you Mom,
We miss you more each day,
Somehow life does not seem the same,
Since you have gone away.
My heart still aches with sadness
My eyes shed many a tear,
God only knows we miss you
As your birthday draws near.
From your daughter Nell, grandchildren and families.

MISCIO, Annie - A birthday tribute to my dear mother who left us January 27, 1993.

My love for you will always keep,
It cannot fade away,
No matter how I spend my days
Or what I do
Every night I close my eyes
I'm always thinking of you.
I love and miss you so very, very much.
Sadly missed by daughter Vera.
